8:30 - 9:30 Worship & Keynote: The Cross Is the Main Thing (free)

The church has slowly and surely become issue driven more than gospel driven. We are driven now by the issues of abortion, homosexuality, and governmental interference. We've become more suited to announcing judgment than preaching redemption. - Michael Gantt

9:45 - 10:30 Magazine & Book Editors Panels (free)

10:45 - 11:45 Workshop Choose from 7 workshops

12:00 - 1:00 Lunch Can be purchased in Aspen Dining Hall

1:00 - 2:00 Workshop Choose from 7 workshops

2:15 - 3:45 How Then Should We Live? (free)

This question first appears in Ezekiel 33:10 after God appoints Ezekiel a watchman for the house of Israel. As Ezekiel 33 watchmen, we can see trouble coming upon the land. As Christians, we have a duty to sound His warning and write His answer. - Charles Patricoff

The moral laws of God are not constraints as much as they are a guard rail. They are not meant to hem us in but to protect us from danger. When men and nations honor the moral principles of Scripture they reap blessings that are tied to those principles. Those who put their trust in God will not be disappointed, and they will not be abandoned in the hour of trouble. But we must not put our trust in men or politicians or the pillow prophets who proclaim ease and comfort and that "our best days are ahead." There are God-appointed principles by which we must govern our lives in order to know his blessing and mercy. - Michael Gantt

4:00 - 5:30 Closing Worship, Awards
Keynote: Live and Write Dangerously (free)

By allowing discomfort - and even a little danger - into your life, you'll start to find the words that God is actually trying to get you to write and to live. - David Rupert
