

Name: Glenda Durano

One sentence that describes me and my writing: I write nonfiction, primarily about the lessons God teaches us and the love He has for us.

Brief bio:

I've been married for 36 years (to the same man!), have two amazing daughters and two equally amazing sons-in-law, and one precious 18-month old grandson. My husband and I own seven businesses which keeps us busy, but I'm recently retired from my primary profession, a Certified Educational Planner. I'm not incredibly disciplined when it comes to writing, but I do enjoy it.

Why I write: I believe God has given everyone stories to share.

I write:

Fiction: short stories books

Genres:

Nonfiction: articles personal experience stories devotions books

Genres:

Other: poetry scripts

My audience Christians general public women men teens children

I'm currently working on: I'm writing (slowly) a college planning guide for homeschoolers. I'm working on getting a memoir about our family's journey into disability published.

My greatest joy ~~and/or~~ struggle in writing is: judging my writing, editing as I write, and not being disciplined enough.

I'd like to meet writers who: want to share their stories and develop honest, supportive relationships

I belong to a writers' group that is open to new members.

I would like to find a writers' group.

Email Address: glendadurano@gmail.com

Website: glendadurano.com

Blog:

City & State (or Country):

I'm not yet published I've been published in periodicals

I have published one or more books

See Book Gallery for my latest book.

Title and genre:

College Admissions Made Easy

College Planning for Christians: Finding Your Fit Without Losing Your Faith