Name: Martha Lynn Dix -- But, I go by Lynn.

One sentence that describes me and my writing:

My heart is filled by rescues that bless the animal but also their rescuer.

Brief bio:

Lynn is wife to an amazing man, mother to a rescued minpin/chihuahua mix, a lover of life and all things antique who enjoys cooking, socializing and growing in God's word. She and her husband have recently downsized into a retirement community.

Why I write: It is a cathartic and healing experience.

I write:

Fiction: ___*_short stories ___books

Genres: middle grade children/YA... so far!

Nonfiction: ___articles *_personal experience stories ___devotions ___books

Genres: middle grade children/YA

Other: ___poetry ___scripts

My audience ___Christians ___general public ___women ___men *_teens *_children

I'm currently working on an illustrated chapter book for middle grade readers where animals narrate their own stories of being saved from abuse or abandonment. In it they recount the love and hope they and their rescuers experienced. Each story notes God's guidance throughout.

My greatest joy and/or struggle in writing is: The joy and struggle are the same when realizing how many animals need rescuing but also telling the success stories of those who have been saved in hopes for more stories just like them.

I'd like to meet writers who enjoy sharing stories of their journey to be where they are now and where else they believe God is leading them.
