

There are several websites under Salem Web

Network: Christianity.com, Biblestudytools.com, Christianheadlines.com (has set experienced writers), iBelieve.com, and Crosswalk.com. Every site has a "Write for Us" tab, where we ask for a description of writing style, links to any previous work, and information on their background and writing experience.

The purpose of iBelieve is to help women wrestle with the deeper issues of their faith as it relates to the world around them. They publish devotions for women, blogs, and articles on faith, relationships, health and beauty, food and home, motherhood, and career. Anyone interested in writing for them can go to "Contact Us" on the main page and then click "Write for Us."

Christianity.com is ordered by classic categories of Christian thought: God, the Bible, Church, Christian Theology, and Christian Life. Each category is further subdivided into areas of significance to many Christians, including Apologetics, Art & Culture, Church History, Devotionals, Family, Jesus, Salvation, Politics, Prayer, Worship, etc. Their Wiki serves to answer any questions readers may have about Christianity, including questions about the Bible, God, Christian Life, and the Church. They have many trusted experts as writers. Anyone interested can go here.

Biblestudytools.com (BST) provides commentary and Scripture tools. The site aims to give Christians the opportunity to read, study, understand, and apply the Bible to their lives. They publish devotionals, study guides, and articles on the Christian life.

Crosswalk.com is an online Christian living magazine. We publish devotionals and articles on many topics, varying from spiritual life and the church, to news and culture, to family and relationships. We seek to provide applicable, educational, and entertaining content to followers of Jesus Christ. As the family editor, I primarily work with those who have real life experience as grandparents/parents of teens/etc. Some writers are licensed psychologists, pastors, and authors/speakers, while others are stay-at-home moms who have a passion for writing and sharing their story. I welcome both!
